

---

---

---

---

---

---

World History/War

Online Workshop: Exploring Crimes of War through the Nanjing Atrocities

April 11-15, 2016

Join us for this five-day online workshop to broaden your understanding of World War II beyond the usual European narrative by focusing on the 1937 Nanjing Massacre - when the Japanese Imperial Army brutally raped, tortured, and murdered thousands of Chinese men, women, and children.

Register

Through the lens of this overlooked moment in history, we will discuss universal questions relating to war crimes and human behavior in times of crisis, and explore post-war legal efforts to hold individuals and nations accountable.

During the workshop, you will:

- Learn about facilitating conversations on difficult subject matter
- Discover new teaching strategies, classroom activities, and multimedia

- Explore primary source documents to teach multiple perspectives
- Gain access to multimedia resources
- Learn with educators from around the globe
- Get a certificate of participation

For this workshop, we have has partnered with HSTRY.co, a fantastic (and free!) web tool that allows you and your students to create interactive timelines equipped with text, video, audio, and collaborative social features.

This workshop takes place over five days and has asynchronous participation to accommodate all timezones.

P.S. Join us on Twitter on Monday, March 14 at 4 p.m. PST/ 7 p.m. EST for an #SSchat on teaching World War II in the Asia-Pacific arena. We will discuss our Nanjing resource.

Facing History and Ourselves
16 Hurd Road
Brookline, MA 02445

Give

Update your email preferences