

Today marks 40 years since the end of the Vietnam War in 1975...

Even today, the devastating side effects of the war are still felt. Vietnam is littered with landmines and unexploded ordnance, decades after the conflict ended.

But, MAG is there to help. We're working with our partners to clear landmines and unexploded ordnance, and give the people of Vietnam a chance to thrive and live in safety.

Today, let us take a moment to remember the Vietnam War, and all of those who lost their lives during the war, and during its aftermath.

A landmine victim in Vietnam

See the Seven Faces of Vietnam, all of whom are affected by contamination in the country.

Seven Vietnam War Songs You Need To Hear.

Success through Partnership: State Department Undersecretary Visits Vietnam

Pause today to remember the lives lost in Vietnam, and the hope for a brighter future that MAG is helping to build.

Please forward this email to your friends, and encourage them to learn more about MAG and our work.